POLISHED NAILS

Between your sparkling ring and that breathtaking bouquet, your fingers will be photographed as much as your face. Get them ready for their close-up with one of these shades.

Navigating nail polish is a lot like shoe shopping—they're all so eye-catching, how do you pick just one? The answer lies in your skin tone (that's starting to sound familiar, huh?). If the underside of your forearm has hints of pink or blue, for example, steer toward a cool polish. Go for a warm one if it's more on the yellow or gold side. Paint a finger with two coats, then evaluate. "If your cuticles appear red or gray, move on," says Deborah Lippmann, a manicurist in New York City. And should the lacquer look different on your nail than it does in the bottle, apply a milky base coat first, suggests New York City nail specialist Ji Baek. "It creates a blank canvas, so the true paint color comes through," she says. Here, a few of our favorite finds.

EDITOR'S PICK

The right polish is a solid start, but a manicure isn't complete until your hands are in top form, too. That's where Rodan + Fields Anti-Age Brightening Hand Treatment comes in. It keeps skin soft with macadamia oil, reduces redness via light-diffusing pigments, and goes on like buttah but doesn't feel greasy ($32, rodanandfields.com).
